Inspector Bruce J. Low, ME

Bottom Line Home Inspection, specializing in residential and light commercial structures, is independently owned and operated by Bruce Low. Throughout his career Bruce has been in construction, engineering and management positions at project, divisional and executive levels, and as a business owner. His background has always centered on construction, and he has a well-rounded understanding of all of the techniques, trades and skills involved. Bruce's credentials include:

- Engineering degrees from Milwaukee School of Engineering, State University of New York and Dutchess College.
- Over 30 years experience in the construction industry.
- Owns BJL Builders, a general contracting business specializing in residential remodeling, repairs and improvements, and personally performs all of the crafts encountered on turnkey projects.

This background provides him with a keen eye for detail, making him the inspector of choice from top to bottom.

Clients are urged to participate in the inspection.

Inspection fees start at $250.
